PLITVICE LAKES NATIONAL PARK

Plitvice lakes National Park is the oldest national park in Southeast Europe and the largest national park in Croatia. Situated in one hundred years old thick forest, the Plitvice lakes are considered to be one of the most beautiful national phenomena in the world. There are sixteen lakes connected by 92 waterfalls, whose cascades make the unique surrounding. Due to its many characteristics and scientific values, they are one of the most notable reserves in all of Europe and were added to the UNESCO World Heritage register among the first natural sites worldwide In 1979.

The Plitvice Lakes consist of a system of lakes comprising 16 large and many small lakes in a series of stages. The water flows from the Prošćansko lake through the series of lakes to the Korana river, cascading over numerous varied sedimentary limestone barriers in the form of a multitude of waterfalls and streams of enchanting beauty and unique hues, ranging from emerald green to turquoise blue depending on the quantity of minerals or organisms in the water and the angle of sunlight.

The exceptional natural beauty of the lakes, waterfalls, the rich flora and fauna, forests and mountain air, strolls on forest paths, rowing, comfortable hotels and restaurants with a domestic atmosphere, as well as numerous other contents provide a pleasant stay and attract almost a million visitors each year.

The trip to the park takes 3 hours, and the drive through the park 2 and half hours – boat trip along the lake is included.

The lunch in the traditional restaurant “Lička kuća” is possible.
